Curious Facts in the Judd Divorce Case at New Haven.

From the New York Tribune.

The testimony in the divorce case of Mrs. Judd agt. the Rev. Orrin B. Judd, D. D., recent pastor of the First Baptist Church of New Haven, is interesting for the light it throws on the independent relation which seems to have existed in this instance between devotional exercises and personal respectability. Singular as the phenomenon may appear, the testimony of the wife and plaintiff, Mrs. Judd, proves that a Doctor of Divinity may, without resigning his pastoral thereo, make the cook mistress of his house and his affections; may appoint her to preside at the family table, and to lined with hun at the family altar; may hold family devotion several times a family table, and to kneel with him at the family allar; nay hold family devotion several times a day, with intermediate fist lights between the two objects of his sonl's affection; may draw one stary from the Government for guarding its treasures in the Assay Office, another from a femrel for preaching the Gospel, and stift a third from a Society for the Translation of the Scriptures—for the improvements he is able to make in the text of the Divine Word—and may still be to buy perticoats for his mother, food for his wife, or elothing for his children We have a teste for variety, but it would slightly muddle our moral and religious perceptions to see and hear the missaters of a Dector of Divinity kick his wife out of his bedroom to the time of "We're climbling uz fore's Illi," or to know that, the morel and religious perceptions to see and hear the misstress of a Doctor of Divinity kick his wife out of his bedroom to the tune of "We're climbing up Zion's Hill," or to know that the Reverend Doctor of himself had locked his half, starved spouse into another bedroom, to keep her from making a raid on the family stock of provisions, while he and his mistress aforesaid were locked in the library in each other's arins singing "Nearer God to Thee." We were somewhat surprised by the preference exhibited by Mr Mc-Ewen of Newark, and his female friend, for that simplicity of costume which has been tolerated only in the ourling of Edio, and the wilds of Africa; but Mr. McEwen's views though eccunite, furnish no parallel for so remarkable a religious phenomenon as the Judd family. If the wife who tells these stories is lesane, why have not Mr. Judd and his friends long since put on record the proper evidence of her insantly, and placed her under moper medical treatment? If the mantive of the wife the toe, then why has there been no judiched determination of the question whether the Rev Dr. Judd was most of a lunante or a knave? If they are both insunc, then should not a war de lenation uquid endo it due to ascertain what the condition as to sanity of the spiritual flocks to whom the Rev Dr. Judd has been ministening?

The Landon Times Office.

The last number of The Bookseller gives us an insight into the admirable system which prevails in the composing-rooms of the London Times Compositors evince the greatest desire to obtain employment in the great establishment in Principal House Square: "None but first-rate compositors, however, stond a chance of being taken on, and the list of clipitale candidates is generally a pretty long one. Moreover, the Times system of ralsing competent compositors from appendices, keep the supply nearly equal to the den and. The Times is the only London daily that employs apprentices, and this employment is, ladeed, the chief cause of disjute to tween in that employs appendices, and this employment, indeed, the chief cause of dispute between it and the Society, though the apprentices are only engaged through the day, principally upon advertisements. When a composition applies for employment on the Times he is tested in a room by himself, upon a piece of Parlimentary debate "copy" which is usually written in a not-over legible style in abbreviated 'long-land. If the applicant can compose sixty lines of Minion in a fairly workman-like manner, without "doubles," "outs," wrong spelling, or a disproportionate unmber of iteral or elerical errors, within two huurs, his name is placed on a register of competent hands, and he may expect to be called in at the first opportunity. Once engaged, the perminancy of his post depends upon himself. No applicant over thirry years of age is eligible, and it he full, upon that, to come up to the regular datandard or efficiency, he is paid for his sixty lines and dismissed—no one but the manager and himself being acquainted with the fact of his application; so that in no case can ligible, and it he fall, upon trial, to come up to the required standard of efficiency, he is paid for his sixty lines and dismissed—no one but the manager and himself being acquainted with the fact of his application; so that in no case an injury arise to a Snelety man from asking for werk on the Times. In the printing office of the desired pourself a capital statement of the manager and himself being acquainted with the fact of his application; so that in no case and injury arise to a Snelety man from asking for werk on the Times. In the printing office of the desired pourself a capital statement has a surprised on the paper. Raffa crown in the pound is deducted from the earnings of each figular compositor, prasuman, much summan and warehousennan, which sum accuminates at interest during the whole period of his employment, and is given up to him on his refreement, and on no account before. A sick limb has been founded by the men, to which mearly every one subserfue; and a surgeon is because of the staff, and is always in attendance or within easy call. Refreshments of all kinds are obtainable on the principle is carried out in every department. Thus, not only are the employeres eared for during the hours of their working life, but none can leave the Times, after any number of years' service, without possessing trut penny in the purse, which we are told is the bust friend at cont. The President—Do you remember that Baptiat rown in Springfield in such a spear?

Congressman—I do not recall it.

The President—Well, Bill, a hardened sinner was converted. Upon an appointed day the minimar of the converts in a stream. After Bill had been plunged under once he saked the preacher to buying the matter, and the was put under for the second line. As he came up he again asked as a particular favor, that he might be baptised just once more. The minister, a little angered, answered that he had already been under once more than the half already been under once the saked the matter, and he was put under for the second line. As he came up he again asked as a particular favor, that he might be baptised just once more. The minister, a little angered, answered that he had already been under once than the last and exclaimed: "There I'll be blowed if the devil can get hold of me alow." The President continued, "General Grant is very much like Bill, He is determined on masking and will not move smit he hea."

Trial of a Chinese Murderer. TA Chinaman named How Jung killed a brother Chinaman in Montana, and was put upon his trial for murder by-the "barbarlan" authorities of that Territory. The ceremony of swearing Chinese witnesses has some points of a movel character about it, of which the subjoined extract from the Helena Herald will give a fair understanding:

ness witnesses has some points or a nover constactor shout it, or which the subjoined extract from the Helena Herald will give a fair understanding:

Ah Lee was interpreter for the prosecution, and fram Wah for the defence. The ceremony of swearing the witnesses and interpreters was a carlous one, inasmuch as it was conducted, as far as possible, in the Chinese fashion. A copy of the usual oath to "tell the trait, the whole truth," &c., or to "truly interpret," as the case might be, was written in Chinese, and presented to each of the persons to be sworn, each once at the same time putting a piece of red joss paper about four inches equare, into his pocket. Two roosters, which had been in "attendance upon Court." for nearly two days in order that they might be ready for this ceremony, were now brought in front of the Judge's deak, in order that, through their martyrdom in the cause of justice, they might be frank for this ceremony, were now brought in front of the Judge's deak, in order that, through their martyrdom in the cause of justice, they might be ready for this ceremony, were now brought in front of the Judge's deak, in order that, through their martyrdom in the cause of justice, they might be ready for this ceremony, were now brought in front of the Judge's deak, in order that, through their martyrdom in the cause of justice, they might be ready for this ceremony.

Judge's deak, in order that they had across a block of wood, beside which stood with theses Nos. 3 and 3 followed suit, the third blow dispatching the fowl. Rooster No. 3 was similarly served by the interpreters and remaining witness. While the fowls were attil bleading and their blood being caught in a plate, the persons being sworn stood up before the Clerk of the Court and burned the oaths to which they had subscribed, at the same time taking upon themselves the following Chinese substitute for an oath. "If I do not tell the truth I shall do not the cilcken dies; but if I do tell the truth is shall do home to China in a short time." The s Impeachment.

The Obleago Times Illustrates the impeachmeathment trial by the following succedote.

The position of the Ropublican party, with reference to the impeachment and removal of Mr. Johnson, is well illustrated by a "little story!"

"What do you think of impeachment?" said a gentleman to a Radical a night or two ago.

"Well, I'll tell you. It's like the boy who was digging after a woodchuck like blazes. A man who was passing, inquired "What are you doing, boy?"

"Thingin' for a woodcuck."

"You don't expect to get him, do you?"

"Yes, sirree. I must kuve him, we're out of meat?"

therefore, transfer it to our column.

There is another pleasant mentive of a certain yolitical party in reference to the impeachment case. It is related that a drover went to Indima, on toot, busing hogs for the Cinchunat matket. After collecting his swine he drove them slowly to Porkopolls, but as there was no telegraph in those days, there came a decline in the market, of which the drover was not advised until he arrived in the city. Hoping that there would be an advance in the price of bacon, he put his four-footed property out to board until all his money was gone, when he was compelled to sell at not loss of several hundred dollars. Returning inous he was asked by his neighbors what were the profits of the operation. "Well," said he, "I reckor I didu't make much money out of the peratics will not make many voiss out of their speculation with Andrew Johnson, but they can console themselves by the reflection had.

Costly and artistic monuments are now in progress at Mount Auburn Gemetery, near Boston, the Bourne town, nearly inhabed, is the most expensive vanit in the grounds, costing more than $50,000; and the grantic sercophague, to the memory of Jonathan Phillips, will cost $30,000. Another fine monument will be that of Farm Sievens, modeled after that of the first Napoleon, in Paris.

The American Sunday School Union held its annual meeting in New York last week. The Steretary's report states that within the last ten years 20,000 schools, containing 1,000,000 children, have been catablished. During the past year, 10,000 tenchers have been employed in teaching 70,000 pupils, and $115,000 have been expended.
